Speaker at Luncheon to Dr. Shaw Takes Veiled Slap at Congressional Union.

Prohibition leanings of the national suffrage forces were shown yesterday for the first time, when members of the National College League Suffrage party and their guests drank glasses of water as a toast to Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, uest of honor at the luncheon in the New Ebbitt. More than 30 women from the college and the suffrage association were present when Miss M. Cary Thomas took the chair as toastmistress and congratulated Dr. Shaw on her long term as leader of the woman suffrage party. Dr. Shaw responded and disclaimed that she has been a leader in any sense, but "only an inspirer."

Under the beading of ten short talks.

Under the heading of ten short talks on "How to win suffrage by making friends insead of enemies," Mrs. Frank M. Roessing said: "You can catch more friends for suffrage with molasses than you can with vinegar."

Whether her statement was inspired by the methods used by the Congressional Union to enforce their demands by attacking the Democratic party, and the repudiation of their anti-partisan policy by the national order of suffragists, those present were unable to say. That it was present were unable to say. That it was taken to sum up the attitude of the Con-gressional Union and so accepted by the scores of women present was indicated by general laughter and applause,

Resolution at Annual

Expressing the hope that the action of organized labor in passing a resolution requesting the government of the United States to urge upon the governments of the nations of other countries to case discriminations against the Jewish people wherever they exist, will be helpful in a calling attention to the wrongs inflicted upon Jewish people, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has forwarded a copy of the resolution to the National Workmen's Committee on Jewish Rights in New York City.

"The cause of the oppressed always secures a sympathetic hearing in the councils of America's workers," wrote Mr. Gompers.

The Polish war victims relief sale of dolls is over for this city, but announcement has been made that orders sent to Mme. Considering the size of the city Washington's sale of dolls was satisfactory, though not so large as that in Boston or Philadelphia.

Rage over the dolls among local society people got fairly started only after the people had had a chance to see the quaint and colorful little figures. Many people are benefited by Mme. Blind soldiers returned from the trenches have stuffed them and the proceeds, in excess of the cost of the labor goes to buy food for the starving Polish children.
